 take your favorite place to work.

where is your favorite place?

Given a choice, where would you like to be right now? Where are your favorite places to mingle, to escape, to gather with friends? Places have the power to make great things happen, and Campfire helps you bring some of your favorite places to work.

work the way you live.

Sometimes the best way to get things done is to curl up on the couch with your laptop or to meet friends at the café. Your life isn't restricted to desks and chairs, work shouldn't be either.

celebrate.

share stories.

Kirt Martin, Design Director

"We designed Campfire to create a space within a space...to create a familiar place where people can gather and collaborate informally with tools that are not high tech. In fact, they're low tech—simple."

choose your favorite places to work.

It's all here, whether you need focus time, team time or me time. The choice is yours. And most of this furniture moves easily, so rearrange it for the big client presentation or to handle extra staff during crunch time, or just because you feel like it.

lockout point

Get some fresh ideas and share them on the media screen. Higher stools invite people to stop and chat. The expanse of table top gives you all plenty of room to have your laptop and your lunch.

day camp

Need a place to focus and crank through that presentation for tomorrow? This is the power place where things happen; people will leave you alone until you invite them in to brainstorm around the paper table.

base camp

Like gathering around a bonfire, this area will become central to your team. Clients will linger to dream through solutions together.

picnic table

Imagine the collaboration that can take place when your team works here all day instead of at separate desks. And of course it doubles as the chili cook-off table.

Touch down to check emails and chat a while. Sometimes you just need a place to perch.

a spot for everyone, everytime.

Whatever your day brings, be assured there will always be favorite places to help you make the most of it. Places to escape and focus, to mingle and mind-meld, to meet and make it happen. And enough options to have a favorite place for every day of your week.

favorite products inspired by your everyday life.

Campfire products are inspired by simple objects—a park bench, a café umbrella, a bonfire. Each piece was designed from life to bring a smile to your face at work.
